Creating/Manifesting/Building with The Fruit of Life

"I am ready to move into the next vibration of my consciousness!"

“You are living within a moment unlike any other in your planetary history, a pivotal point that holds the potential for transformation and awakening. The frequencies now bathing Earth – frequencies that resonate with higher dimensions of existence – have never before been sustained in such measure within a realm of form, creating an unprecedented opportunity for growth and evolution. Your world is rising, quickly and irreversibly, into a higher harmonic field of consciousness, where the vibrational quality of life is shifting toward greater harmony and alignment with your Divine truth.

“As these frequencies anchor into your planetary grid, they act as a great revealer, illuminating all that was once obscured by the shadows of spirtual blindness and fear.

Nothing is hidden from vibration; it is a universal law that all things resonate at their own unique frequencies. Nothing can masquerade as light while rooted in fear, for the truth of one's essence will always emerge in the presence of higher vibrations. This process of revelation is essential for the collective awakening, as it allows for the shedding of programmed beliefs and patterns that no longer serve the highest good.

Those who choose to embody compassion, respect, and unity will feel these energies as a natural acceleration in their lives. For them, life begins to flow with greater coherence, as they align themselves with the rhythmic pulse of the higher frequencies. Synchronicity replaces struggle, and the Light begins to conspire in their favour. Solutions appear where conflict once stood, illuminating paths that were previously obscured by fear and doubt.

This is not because their path is free of challenge, but rather because their hearts are aligned with the fundamental current of the Light, which is love in action. This alignment forsters resilience and clarity, enabling them to navigate the complexities of existence with grace and ease...

As Earth's frequency rises, lower vibrational patterns can no longer sustain themselves, leading to a profound shift in the collective experience. Systems build upon control, hatred, division, or deception lose power, becoming increasingly fragile in the face of the rising energies.

The universe is calling for a return to love and unity, and those who resist this call will find themselves increasingly isolated and disoriented. Know this clearly: no soul is being judged nor punished. Each being is meeting the vibrational outcome of their own choices... This understanding is not meant to incite fear but to empower individuals to take responsibility for their actions and their impact on the collective.

As outdated systems collapse, new possibilities will arise, paving the way for a brighter future. To those who feel overwhelmed by the rapid changes and the chaos surrounding you, we say this:

Darkness dissolves automatically in the presence of light. The more you shine your light, the less power darkness holds. Focus on cultivating your inner radiance, for it is through your light that transformation occurs. Your presence alone can inspire others to awaken and choose love over fear.

Shine your light brilliantly, illuminating the path for yourself and others. Speak with kindness, for your words are powerful tools for healing and connection. Act with courage, standing firm in your truth even when faced with adversity.

Choose unity even when separation is being loudly advertised, for each small act of connection contributes to the greater tapestry of oneness. You do not need to convince anyone of truth. Embody it. Your frequency alone teaches more than words ever could, resonating with those who are ready to awaken.

As more of you choose compassion over conflict, cooperation over control, and unity over division, you form a living bridge into a new way of existence. Each choice you make ripples through the collective consciousness, creating waves of change that can uplift and inspire others to follow suit. Together, you are co-creating a reality rooted in love, understanding, and mutual respect.

You are not alone. You have never been alone. The Infinite Light of the One true Creator is within you. Walk forward together, supporting one another in this journey of awakening, and the path will continue to open beneath your feet.

Mathematics is the Alphabet with which

– Plato

At the heart of everything is a mathematical code that inspires, influences, and informs it and how it appears in physical reality. In short, sacred geometry is the underlying and organizing principle of Creation.

Sacred geometry:

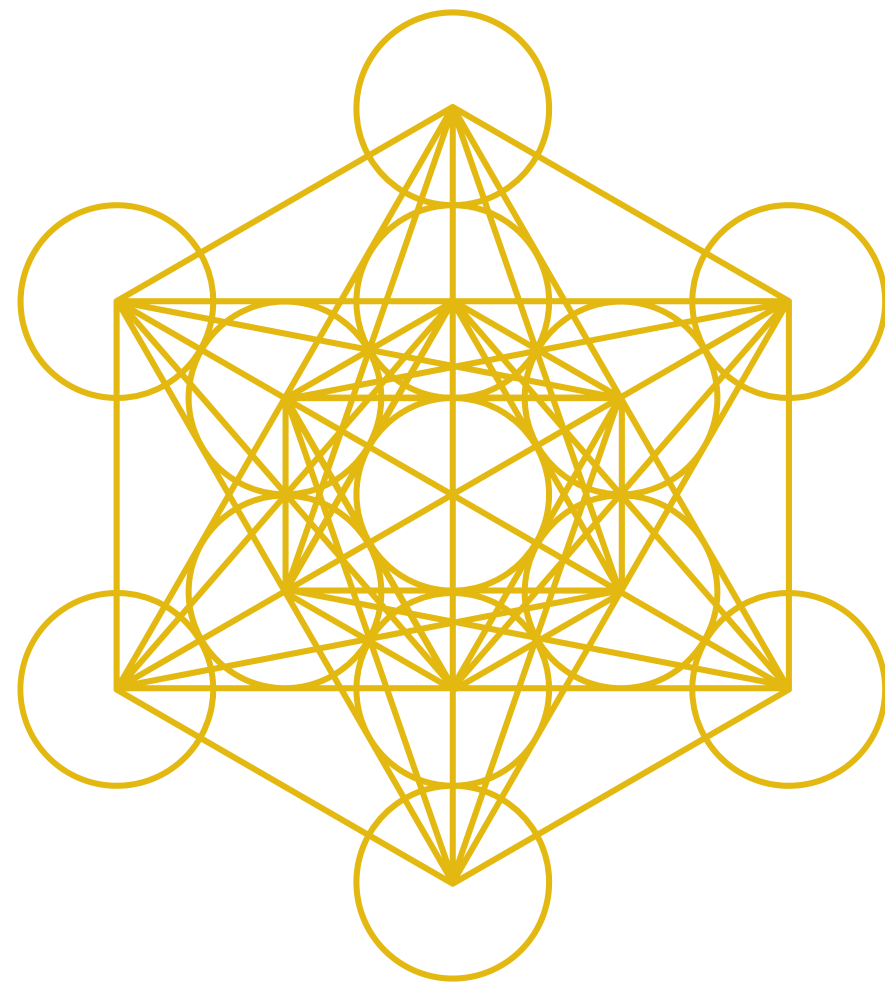

the place where mind and matter, the spiritual and the physical, the manifest and unmanifest, the bound and boundless meet. If you can imagine an architect's blueprint you can capture a snapshot of just how integral to life sacred geometry is. Just as the blueprint informs the layout, placement, spacing and more of a building, so too does sacred geometry inform the layout, placement, and spacing of Earth, the universes, and all of their inhabitants.

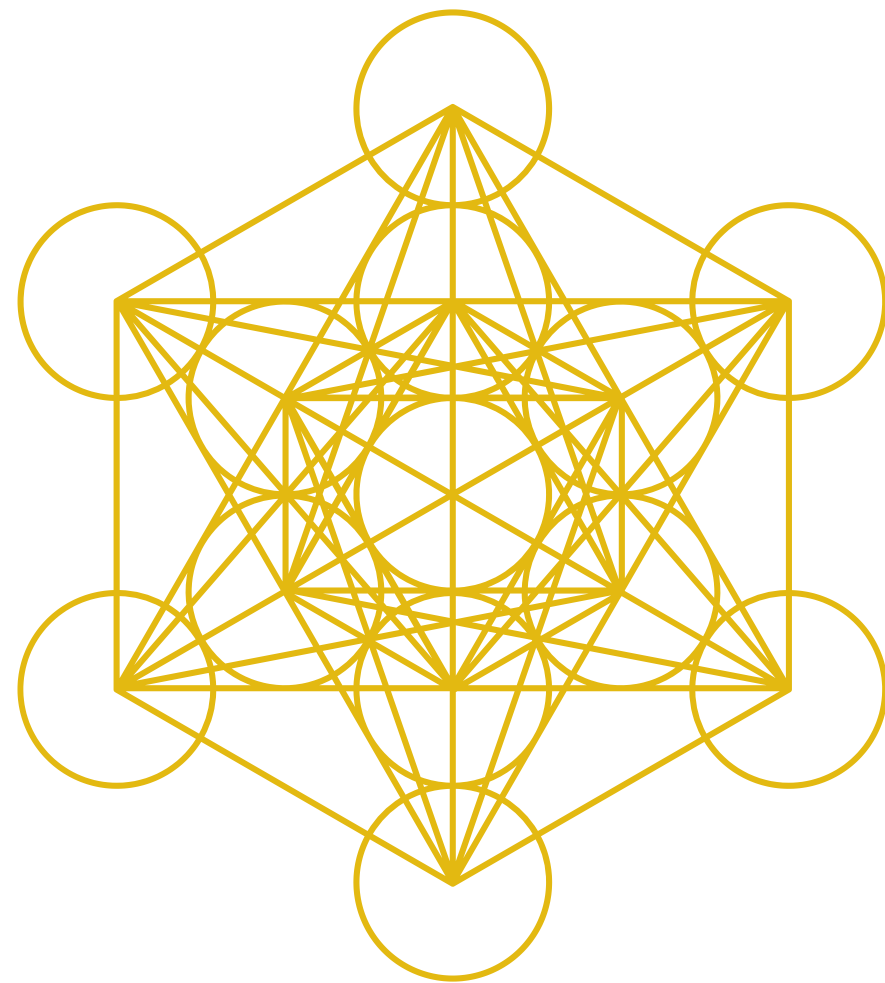

This complex Sacred Geometry structure is derived from the ancient structure of the Flower of Life. It is named after the Archangel Metatron. Metatron appears in both the Jewish and Christian traditions, as well as in some aspects of Islam.

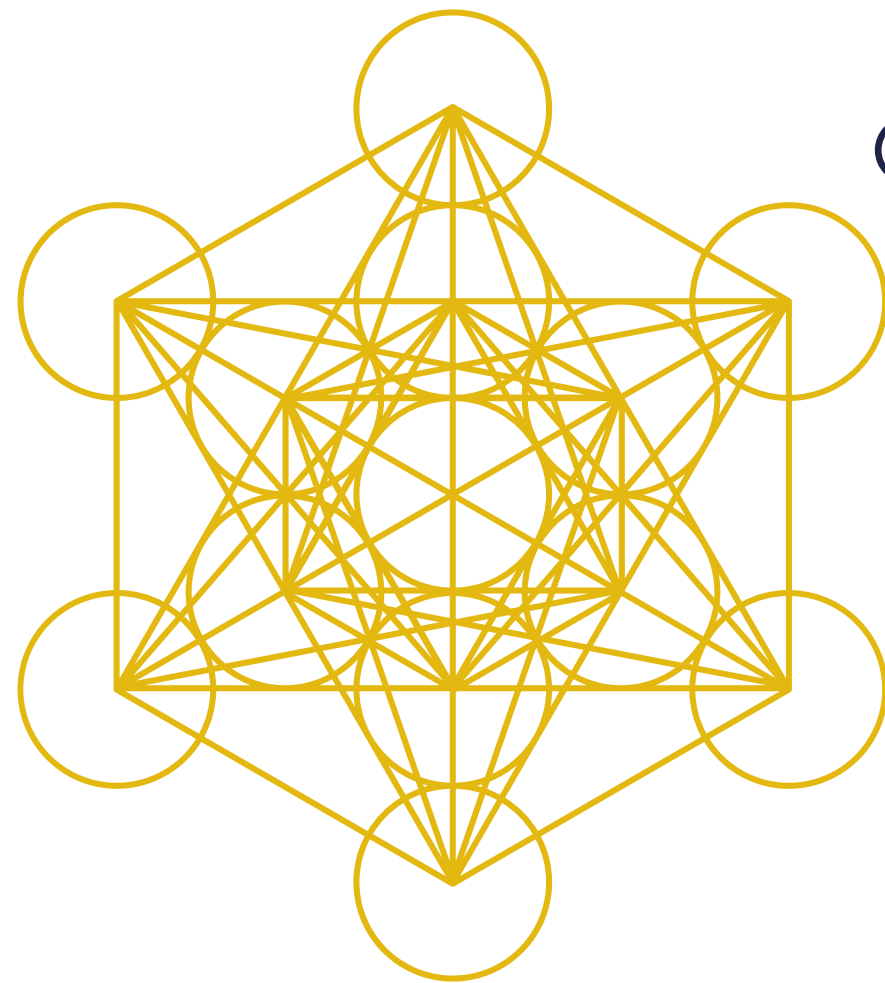

Metatron is in charge of all of creation and is considered an Archangel as well as a judge.

Its origin, as well as the origin of the Flower of Life, is shrouded in mystery that can be traced back in time to thousands of years ago. The importance of the Flower of Life lies in the hidden structure within it – the Fruit of Life, which is the 'Holy of Holies' of Sacred Geometry. It can be derived out of the Flower of Life structure when we create a 13 circles pattern out of the Flower pattern, Why was this structure so important and secretive? The reason is in its potential.

If we connect all the possible centers of the circles we will receive 78 lines, creating a structure known as the Metatron's Cube. This structure contains bi-dimensional drawings of all 5 Platonic Solids: the cube, the tetrahedron, the octahedron, the dodecahedron, and the icosahedron. These figures are unique in having all their vertexes tangent with the surface of a ball. These figures, and their different combinations, give every possible molecular structure and every possible geometrical law, the reality we live in. These structures are named after the ancient Greek philosopher Plato who was influenced by none other than Pythagoras and his disciples – the Pythagoreans who were looking for the secret patterns and laws that govern the universe.

It is interesting to see how, for example the Pythagoreans used one of the 5 Platonic solids the Dodecahedron.

Each facet of a dodecahedron is actually a pentagon/pentad. The pentad was so revered to early Greek philosophers and the disciples of Pythagoras that its construction and its divine proportions were kept secret.

The Pythagoreans used it as a symbol to recognise one another. They learned its relation to the Divine Proportion (the Golden Mean) which is one of nature's basic mathematical/geometrical laws, and they discovered how this proportion affects the human psyche (we respond/react to this proportion as harmonious and beautiful, with a deep tranquilising effect)/

--> i.e. it soothes our senses and our nervous system.

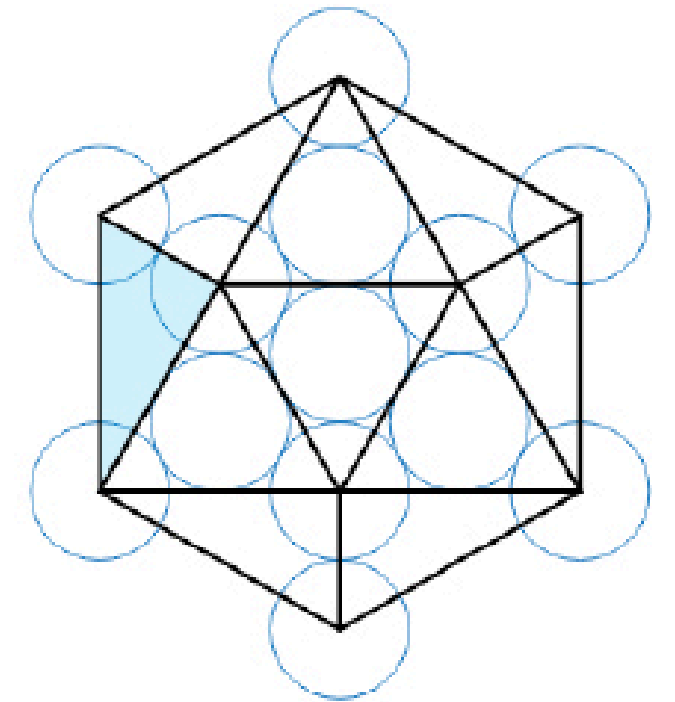

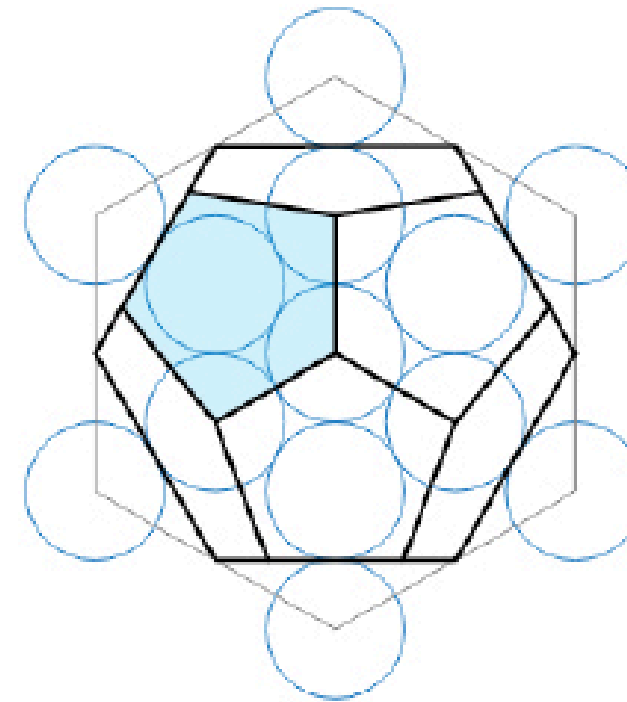

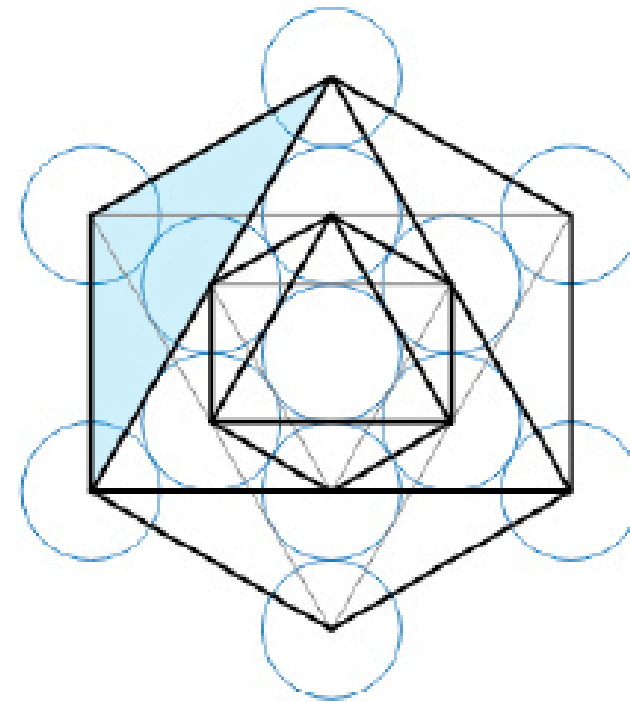

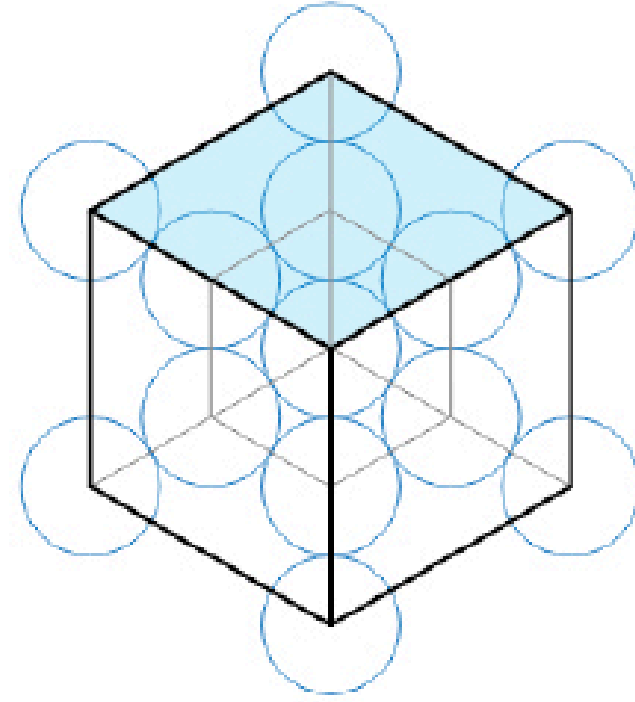

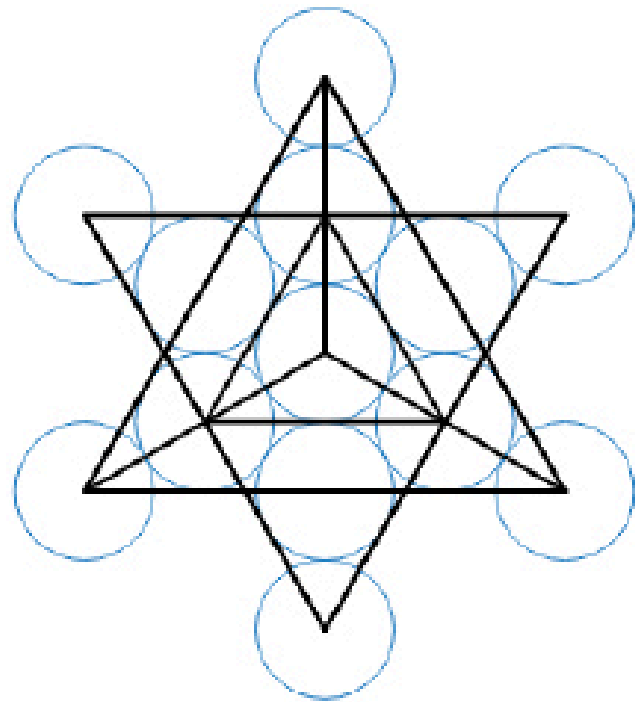

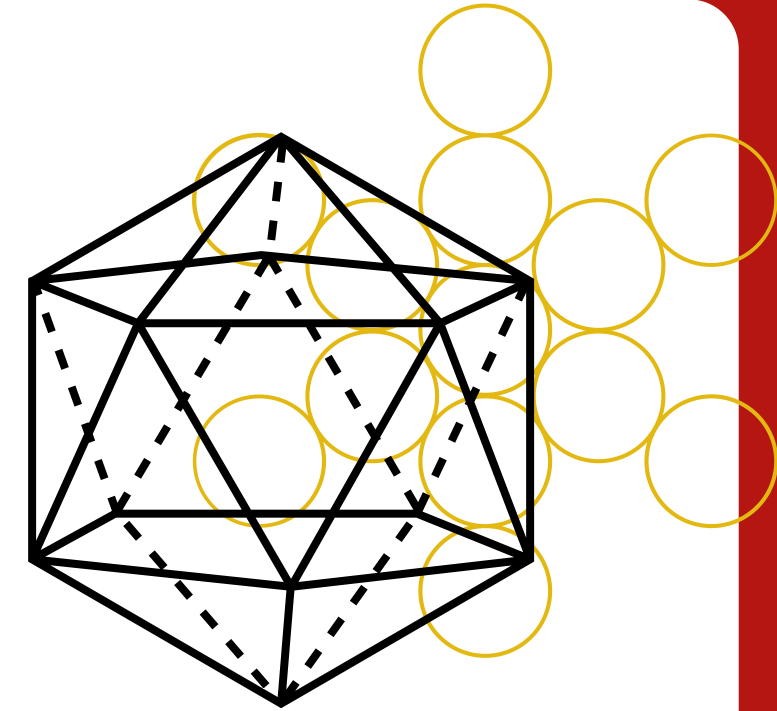

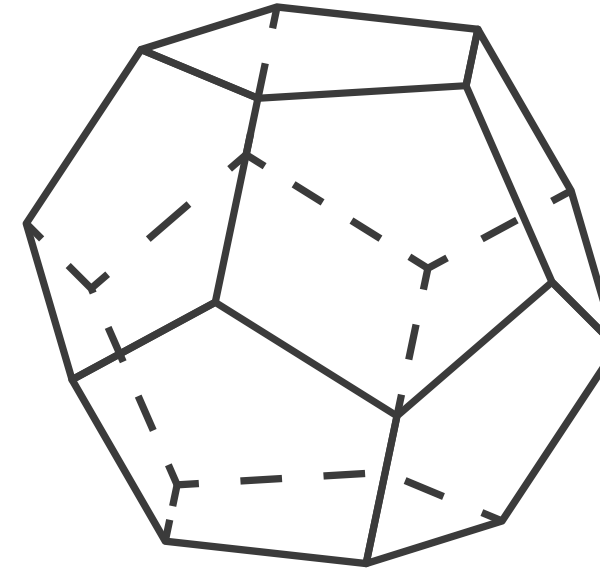

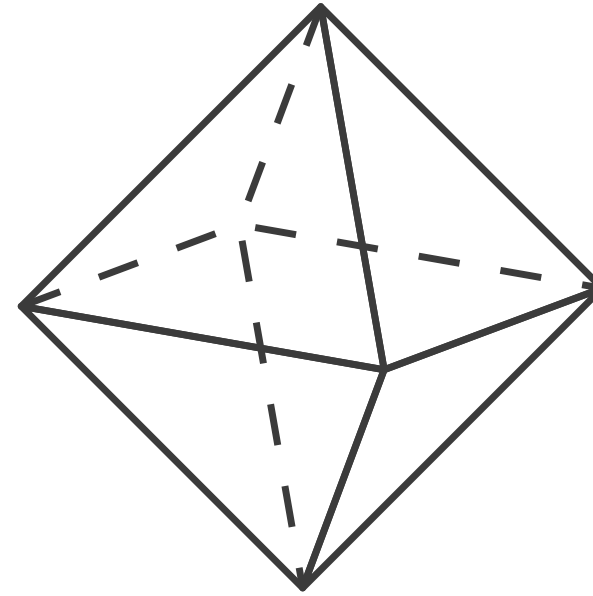

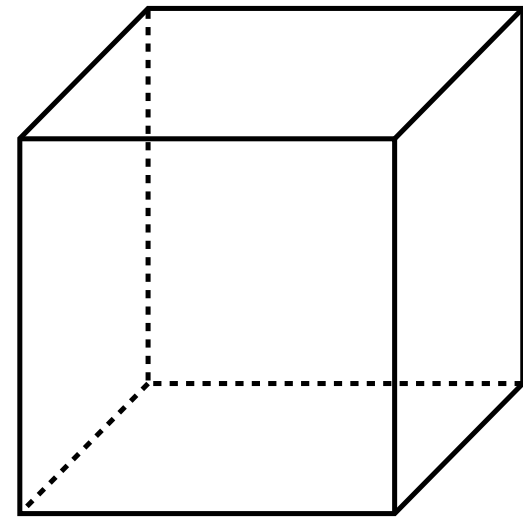

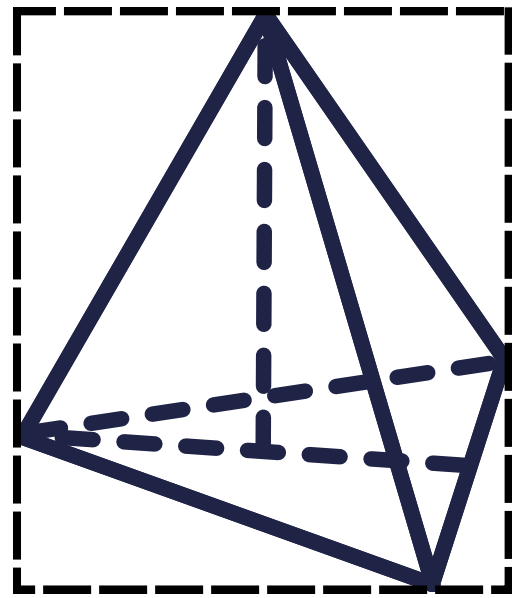

Before these become physical solids, they first exist in frequency and energy.

Plato and Pythagoras shared a mystical approach to the soul and its place in the material world, therefore looking for the way the Prima materia – the primitive formless base of all matter took form and became the universe. The Metatron's Cube is just that secret key.
